HALO News 8-14

Central Park.....Scunthorpe

There was a nice mix of ages and experience at Central Park last Saturday. Which was great since Dave Jolly, along with his daughters had planned the event, taking one course each, making it a true family event.

There is a detailed event report by Brian Slater on the HALO website at <http://www.halo-orienteering.org.uk>

I would like to have said that it was tight at the top on the technical course (because it's a great tongue twister!) but with Brian Ward leading the way home, four minutes clear of Chris Gooch and Brian Hostad, it was actually a clear win.

However the previous Thursday the two Brians did battle at the LOG night score event. On that occasion Brian Hostad came out on top, finishing fourth overall, with Brian Ward 6th and Amanda Ward 20th. There is a small HALO league going on within the overall competition, Neil is currently leading the HALO contingent.

The Field Family, along with many SYO members travelled to the British Night O Champs in Sussex, hosted by Mole Valley Orienteers. You can see how they got on here <http://www.mvoc.org>

Pat and Ann O'Grady went to the DVO event last Sunday, near Chatsworth. Ann was 13th on the orange course and Pat was 34th on the short green.

I didn't spot anyone else running. If you did please let me know.

Lastly, there is a score event at Willingham Woods on 2nd April. This is to welcome in the new permanent course markers installed in the wood. Further details on the HALO website.

Collecting controls on Saturday I happened to travel in the opposite direction to which I had on the course. A useful training exercise!!
