New look Newsletter

After the problems last week, I'm experimenting with a new template. All newsletters are now designed to be read on smart phones or tablets.

The next few months are going to be dominated by Poacher news, with Peter Harris doing event reports on the HALO website each week.

At the newsletter I would welcome any quirky stories and/or photos from Poacher events. I'd also be grateful if anyone could do a JK report, as I'm not attending this year.

Plus at sometime in the future we would welcome guest editors for the HALO News, if you would like to have a go, please get in touch.

Thanks Chris.

spring into summer, and three months of great mid-week orienteering. The series starts tomorrow at Hendale Woods. A full list of events and competition details are on the HALO website.

On Thursday LOG continue their Spring Series at Stoke Rochford near Grantham.

Sunday has an EBOR event at Pry Rigg near Helmsley.

then on Sunday finished 12th on the brown course at Bramley Falls near Leeds.

George Van Dam has been busy, running at the SYO sprint event at Sheffield on Saturday and then the AIRE Bramley Falls event Sunday.

Emma Van Dam had a good win on the yellow course at Bramley Falls, well done Emma.

Amanda Ward is back from injury (mozzzy ankle bite) and ran with husband Brian at the Ely urban event last Saturday.

Lastly Lawrence Cook makes his second Mastermind appearance this Friday in the semi-finals.

part in this event organised by Brian Slater. Students from the Grimsby Institute, Toll Bar and DeAston Schools competed in an informal event. Thirty controls with differing values were placed on the new permanent markers. The HALO helpers had a little competition, won by David Jolly, ahead of Neil Harvatt, Lawrence Cook and myself. It is interesting to note that those with time penalties only lost 10 points per minute over, whilst collecting controls valued at 40 points #justsaying :-)
